A forbidden method of warfare consisting in deliberately depriving civilian persons of food. It is, for example, prohibited to attack, destroy, remove or render useless objects indispensable to the survival of the civilian population¹, such as foodstuffs, agricultural areas for the production of foodstuffs, crops, livestock, drinking water² installations and supplies and irrigation works, etc., for the specific purpose of denying them their sustenance value to the civilian population³ or to the adverse party, in order to starve civilians, cause them to move away, or for any other motive.

These prohibitions do not apply if the objects covered are used by an adverse party (a) as sustenance solely for the members of its armed forces⁴; (b) in direct support of military action, with certain provisions.

These objects must not be made the object of reprisals⁵.

In recognition of the vital requirements of any party to the conflict in the defence of its national territory against invasion, derogation of the above prohibitions may be made by a party to the conflict within such territory under its own control where required by imperative military necessity⁶.

See Methods of warfare⁷; Objects indispensable to the survival of the civilian population¹;
Chapter 9, III. 3. c) starvation of civilians

Chapter 9, IV. 1. a) starvation of civilians: a prohibited method of warfare

LEGAL SOURCE

prohibited method of warfare

PI, 54/1

PII, 14

CIHL, 54

CASES

Angola, Famine as a Weapon

The armed conflict in Syria

Israel, Blockade of Gaza and the Flotilla Incident

Yemen: Naval Blockade

Yemen, Potential Existence and Effects of Naval Blockade
BIBLIOGRAPHIC RESOURCES

Suggested readings:

Further reading:
